

Existing landfill sites - PPC permit application programme

Landfill sites have been allocated to three tranches following a high level risk assessment, based on information that was supplied in Site Conditioning Plans by landfill operators to the Environment & Heritage Service in February 2004. This has allowed EHS to phase the workload and prioritise the permitting of landfill sites on the basis of potential environmental risk.

The permitting process will bring existing sites into compliance with the Landfill Regulations. This will ensure that sites will be regulated to more stringent standards designed to enhance protection of the environment and human health. Existing landfill sites that are not applying for PPC permitting must stop accepting waste for disposal by 31 March 2007.
